

COOPI PRESENCE IN THE COUNTRY

Since 2016, COOPI has been present in Syria with Protection, Food Security and Agriculture, Education, and Early Recovery projects in the rural areas of Damascus, Dara'a, Hama, Homs, Raqqqa, Latakia, and Aleppo.

In 2017, with funding from AICS, COOPI launched its first food security and livelihoods and water and hygiene intervention in Qatana, in the rural area of Damascus. In 2018, COOPI launched a protection program in Aleppo, funded by UNHCR, to provide support to people with special needs, including vulnerable children and people with disabilities. In 2018 and 2019, targeting returnees from Eastern Ghouta, COOPI promoted life-saving food assistance and household-level agricultural production support interventions, funded by ECHO and OCHA. Since 2020, COOPI has provided educational and psychosocial support to children in Aleppo and the rural area of Damascus, to reduce school dropout and promote children's well-being.

COOPI IN SYRIA TODAY

In Syria, COOPI implements emergency, resilience, and development projects, in coordination with local authorities, civil society actors, and national and international organizations.

COOPI is supporting the transition from emergency response toward more sustainable and lasting recovery and development processes, contributing to creating favorable conditions for the safe and dignified return of displaced persons and for strengthening the well-being and resilience of Syrian communities. In 2023, COOPI provided assistance to populations affected by the earthquake in the areas of Aleppo, Latakia, and Hama. In 2024, 2025, and 2026, COOPI further expanded and consolidated its presence, carrying out interventions in Daraa, the rural area of Damascus, Hama, Aleppo, Raqqa, Latakia, and Homs, in the sectors of Protection, Education, Early Recovery, and Livelihoods.

COOPI DEVELOPMENT LINES IN SYRIA

COOPI main areas of intervention in Syria in the near future will include:

- Protection, by focusing on case management, mental health, legal and psycho-social assistance, prevention of violence and abuses against women and children. In parallel, COOPI will continue implementing social cohesion and community led initiatives fostering peace and community well-being.
- Education, closely linked with protection activities, COOPI will focus on out-of-school children, children with disabilities, adolescents at risk, returnee children, parents and teachers. COOPI will continue working inside and outside of schools, reaching vulnerable children. COOPI will also continue to engage for the rehabilitation of public education infrastructures and in the provision of key education materials to the most vulnerable.
- Early Recovery, livelihoods and resilience with a focus on vocational training, Micro small and medium enterprises (Msme), agriculture value chain and improved access to markets. COOPI will work on soil and water conservation systems to increase agriculture production. We will focus in parallel to improve access to Energy through solar systems, mini-grids and electrical transformers installation.
